What Closing Day Means

Closing is the final step where the purchase is completed and ownership transfers.

- 1 Sign final documents
Complete the paperwork needed to finalize your loan and transfer ownership.
- 2 Confirm funds
Your lender and closing team confirm funds, payoffs, and transfers.
- 3 Finalize ownership
Once documents are recorded, the home can officially be yours.
- 4 Receive next steps
Your closing team explains what to keep, set up, and expect next.

BIG IDEA Closing day is not just paperwork — it is the final handoff from planning to homeownership.

Before Closing Day

A few simple steps can help closing feel smooth and predictable.

Review your Closing Disclosure

Look over the final numbers and ask questions early.

Confirm cash to close

Verify the amount due and the approved delivery method.

Bring government-issued ID

You'll need valid photo identification to sign documents.

Confirm time and location

Know where to go, when to arrive, and who to contact.

Complete the final walkthrough

Make sure the home is in the agreed-upon condition.

What You May Sign

Your closing agent will walk you through the documents — you don't need to memorize them.

Loan documents

Note, mortgage or deed of trust, and related lender paperwork.

Title documents

Ownership transfer, title insurance, and settlement paperwork.

Closing disclosures

Final loan terms, costs, and acknowledgments.

Deed-related documents

Documents that legally transfer ownership.

Settlement paperwork

Itemized closing funds, credits, and charges.

TIP It's normal for closing to involve many signatures. Slow down, ask questions, and keep copies.

Protect Yourself Before Funding

Wire fraud is real. Pause and verify before sending money.

Verify wiring instructions by phone

Call the title company using a known, trusted number.

Use a known phone number

Do not rely on a number from a last-minute email.

Never trust sudden wiring changes

Unexpected changes should be treated as a warning sign.

Double-check every detail

Confirm recipient, account number, routing number, and amount.

Ask questions before sending funds

If something feels off, stop and verify first.

After Closing

You made it. Now protect your documents and settle into ownership.

Get your keys

Celebrate and enjoy your new home.

Save your closing documents

Keep copies in a safe place.

Set up mortgage payments

Confirm first payment date and method.

Transfer utilities

Move services into your name.

Review homeowner reminders

Keep building confidence after closing.
